Much Interest in the Big Sandy News Trip To Jamestown, Richmond and Washington.

SEVERAL CHANGES IN THE STANDING OF THE CANDIDATES.

There are a good many dollars and the Big Sandy News by persons interested in the Jamestown contest and who do not cast any votes in it. These we designate as "Don't Care" votes. In order to stimulate the work for new subscribers we have decided to divide these votes amongst the three candidates having the most dollars on new subscriptions to their credit at a date to be announced later.

Miss Ethel Swetnam, Wilbur, 6199 Mrs. Julia Allen, Townsboro, 105 Mrs. J. W. Hinkle, Richmond, 105

Above is a correct summary of the candidates and their votes up to Thursday morning of this week. All ballots will be preserved so that any question that might arise may be settled beyond question.

We expect to have the contest party stop over in Richmond Va., which is a very interesting city because of the important part played there in the history of this country. Also, on the return trip we hope to arrange to come from Norfolk to Washington City by steam, stopping en route at Mt. Vernon, the home of George Washington.

From Norfolk there will be side trips to Virginia Beach and Old Point Comfort, two of the most popular bathing resorts on the Atlantic coast.

REVISED SCHEDULE: - Every one who pays IN ADVANCE one year's subscription to THE NEWS will be entitled to 125 votes: two years 250 votes; three years, 400 votes; four years, 550 votes; five years, 700 votes; six years, 875 votes; seven years, 1075; eight years, 1200; nine years, 1350; ten years, 1525. Ten years is the limit for this proportionate increase on advance subscription to a single address.

Something All Should Know.

A Pretty Home Wedding.

The residence of Mr. Paul Gault, this city, was the scene of a very pretty home wedding last Tuesday morning. Those most interested in the happy event were Miss Maude Gault, a niece of Mr. Gault, and Mr. Charles Curry, of Greensburg, Ky.

At a few minutes past nine o'clock these two entered the cozy parlor and stood before the Rev. O. F. Williams, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, and as the strains of the wedding march died upon the summer air, he impressively pronounced the fateful words which made the twain man and wife. The guests, made up of a few relatives and personal friends, tendered their hearty congratulations and sincere good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Curry, and then with many a good-by and some tears, the couple set out upon a brief wedding tour.

This trip was originally projected as a visit to Eastern cities and, of course, the Jamestown Exposition. But man proposes and sometimes Providence wills otherwise. Recent bereavement in the form of the death of the grandmother and an uncle of the bride had changed many plans.

Instead of the extended journey Mr. and Mrs. Curry will visit Cincinnati and her mother's home in Williamsburg, O., and then go to Central Kentucky for a brief stay, then to Lexington, W. Va., which will be their home.

Much of Mrs. Curry's girlhood time was spent in this city where she had won many friends by her charm of person and disposition. Always receptive she looked very pretty on her wedding morn. Dressed in a beautiful suit of champagne voile over champagne silk, with all the appropriate accessories of the bridal toilette, she made a very handsome picture.

Mr. Curry is a fine looking young business man, of excellent family and character. He is travelling salesman for one of Huntington's big houses, that of the Watts-Ritter Company, and enjoys the esteem and confidence of his employers and of all who know him best. He is to be congratulated upon the winning of his fair bride and the NEWS wishes for both long life and happiness.

J. P. Gartin has formed a connection with a new piano firm at Ashland and will continue to distribute the instruments of harmony (and discord) in the Big Sandy homes. The same desirable line heretofore handled by Mr. Gartin will be sold by him.

An Artist and Her Work.

Miss Shirley Burns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Burns, of this city, has displayed quite remarkable talent along very beautiful and interesting lines. During the past year she attended school in Cincinnati, and it was in this school that her wonderful talent was discovered and developed. Miss Shirley has shown very beautifully that she is an artist, and her ability is manifested in her work as a decorator of china. The work done by this young girl, and which is now shown at her home with pardonable pride, is beautiful and artistic to a degree. Vases, dishes, plates, cups, saucers, etc., all of fine French china, have been so tinted and ornamented with exquisite birds and blossoms, true to nature and to life, that their intrinsic value has been even from a mercenary point of view, greatly enhanced. But aside from this it is a source of great satisfaction to the indulgent father and mother of Miss Burns to know that in this array of beautiful things is visible, tangible proof of talent, and that the care and dollars spent in the development of this talent, this artistic sense, is not without its return.

PERT PARAGRAPHS

Picked Up At Pike, Paint and Prestonsburg.

The death of G. Wash Rice occurred at his home in Paintsville Wednesday noon. He had been sick for several months.

The friends of Hon. W. R. McCoy, of Incz, are urging him to enter the race for Commonwealth's Attorney in his district, and he has about made up his mind to do so.

Prestonsburg, Ky., June 24.—The store of J. M. Harris & Co., at West Prestonsburg, was destroyed by fire at midnight last night. The loss is $7,000, with $2,200 insurance. Incendiarism is suspected.

Mose Phillips, charged with assisting Henry Montgomery in the murder of Alva Montgomery a year ago, was tried at Salysville, and the jury gave him a three year sentence, Monday. He was not so lucky as Henry, who broke jail during April and has not been located yet.

Good authority says that a new phone line to Pikeville from Williamsburg will be in operation within thirty days. It will connect with the central office at the latter place, and will give an opportunity for telephone service between that point and Catlettsburg and Huntington.

H. L. Francis, of Pikeville, has gone to Cincinnati to visit his daughter, Mrs. Evan Thomas, who is ill. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas have apartments there at the Palace hotel, and Mrs. Thomas is under the constant care of a trained nurse and a fine physician.

Mrs. Pherigo, of Pikeville, through the instrumentality of Mr. Sanders, claim adjuster, and Dr. Z. A. Thompson, Surgeon for the C. & O. Railroad Company, has compromised her claim for injuries received in the wreck near Maysville some time ago. The railroad company pays her $1350 and all expenses of medical attention, nurses, etc.

Some friction has developed at Prestonsburg regarding the location of the site for the bridge to be constructed across the Big Sandy at that place. The promoters of the enterprise want to build the bridge at a point opposite the old Court House square, but the owner of the property on the opposite side of the river objects. Hon. Walter S. Harkins and others want the bridge to cross the river at the Garfield Bottom almost opposite the C. & O. depot.

A Young Men's Christian Association is to establish a branch at Paintsville, if present plans don't fail. It is the intention of the Association to establish a branch in the Big Sandy Valley and Paintsville is favorably regarded as a suitable place for the branch. In addition to this Mr. John C. Mayo has proposed to contribute $10,000 to the order to assist in building a home for the Association. If a branch is established there a fine building will be erected, the same to cost not less than $20,000.

MOSE EVANS

Found Guilty of the Murder of Mary Belle Kirk.

"The past two days have been taken up with the trial of Mose Evans for the killing of Mary Belle Harnan about two years ago. Evans made his escape, but was captured about two months ago somewhere in Tennessee and brought back for trial. The jury in the Evans case was out until about ten o'clock Thursday night when a verdict was reached, and no recommendation to mercy was made. This will mean that the condemned man will be hanged unless the verdict is set aside. Counsel for the defense has made a motion to that effect."

The above was taken from a Williamson paper and is substantially correct except as to the name of the victim. Her name was Mary Belle Kirk and not Mary Belle Harnan. As stated above Evans' crime was the killing of this poor girl, who was a native of Martin county, born on Wolf creek about twenty-two years ago. She was a very pretty girl, and had always borne an excellent character. Her father was a well-known character, familiarly known as "Claw-Hammer Joe" Kirk. Mose Evans, her slayer, was also a Martin county product, being a son of John Evans, who lived near the mouth of Wolf creek. Another Evans, Jeff by name, had some time before the murder of the Kirk girl served a sentence in a Virginia penitentiary for murder. The murder for which Evans will probably some day die on the scaffold was particularly shocking. It seems that he and Miss Kirk had once been sweethearts. He was exceedingly jealous, and had threatened to kill her because of some real or fancied ground for his jealousy. One day he met her not far from Warfield, on the West Virginia side, walking with another man. A quarrel ensued, and Evans in his rage shot the girl, inflicting wounds from which she died a day or two afterwards. He claims, so it is said, that the shooting was purely accidental, but he tied the country and for about two years successfully evaded capture. The authorities gave up the hunt and the Baldwin Detective Agency took it up. He was finally traced to Tennessee and caught in a mining camp and brought back to Mingo county, and his trial and conviction followed.

It will be seen that Evans has moved for a new trial. His lawyers will have to make a mighty good showing if they get it from Judge Wilkerson, and as juries across the Tur do not fix the penalty the accused may be said to stand on slippery ground. The NEWS learns that in her early girlhood days Miss Kirk was a pupil in a school taught by Ed. Kirk, of the gas office.

TWO DEALS

In Which Louisa Business Property Changes Hands.

Dr. T. D. Burgess, of Matewan, W. Va., has purchased from James Q. Lackey the business house and lot on Main cross street adjoining the First National Bank. The deal was made yesterday and immediate possession given.

This is the location used for so many years by Greenville Lackey for the transaction of a general merchandising business.

Dr. Burgess will probably erect a modern business house on this property some time in the future.

Hromley Bros. have purchased the store building occupied by D. C. Spencer and will move into it some time before September 1st. The lot on which the building stands is included in the deal.

Hromley Bros. were notified a few days ago that they must vacate the building in which they are now doing business. Not finding another that suited them they purchased the Spencer building.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Sullivan and Miss Lucille have gone to Ashland to attend the Sayre-Poage marriage. From Ashland they expect to go to Flemingsburg for a visit to Mr. John Borders.

Dolliver Nunley, a Wayne county timberman, and Miss Alice Conley, from Lincoln county, W. Va., were married in Catlettsburg Tuesday.

CHAPTER XXVII.

And So the Light Led Me.

He had been to see Sister Theresa, and Marian was walking with him to the gate. I saw her quite plainly in the light that fell from the lamp overhead. A long cloak covered her, and a fur toque capped her graceful head. My grandfather and his guide were apparently in high spirits and their laughter smote harshly upon me. It seemed to shut me out, to lift a barrier against me. The world lay there within the radius of that swaying light, and I hung aloof, hearing her voice and jealous of the very companionship and sympathy between them.

But the light led me. I remembered with bitterness that I had always followed her, whether as Olivia, trailing in her girlish grace across the snow, or as the girl in gray, whom I had followed on that night journey at Christmas eve; and I followed now. The distrust, my shattered faith, my utter loneliness, could not weigh against the joy of hearing that laugh of hers breaking mellowly on the night.

I paused to allow the two figures to widen the distance between us as they traversed the path that curved away toward the chapel. I could still hear their voices, and see the lantern flash and disappear. I felt an impulse to turn back, or plunge into the wood land; but I was called on unaccountably. The light glimmered, and her voice still floated back to me. It stole through the keen winter dark like a memory of spring; and so her voice and the light led me.

Then I heard an exclamation of dismay followed by laughter, in which my grandfather joined merrily.

"Oh, never mind; we're not afraid!" she exclaimed.

I had rounded the curve in the path where I should have seen the light, but the darkness was unbroken. There was silence for a moment, in which I drew quite near to them.

Then my grandfather's voice broke out cheerily.

"Now I must go back with you! A fine person you are to guide an old man! A foolish virgin, indeed, with no oil in her lamp!"

"Please do not! Of course I'm going to see you quite to your own door! I don't intend to put my hand to the lantern and then turn back!"

"This walk isn't what it should be," said my grandfather, "we'll have to make a better one in the spring."

Then they were silent and I heard him futilely striking a match, when suddenly the lantern fell, its wires rattling as it struck the ground, and the two exclaimed with renewed merriment upon their misfortune.

"If you will allow me!" I called out, fumbling in my pocket for my own matchbox.

I have sometimes thought that there is really some sort of decent courtesy to me. An old man caught in a rough path that was none too good at best! And a girl, even though my enemy! But these were not, I fancy, the reflections that crossed my mind at the moment.

"Ah, it's Jack," exclaimed my grandfather. "Marian was showing me the way to the gate and our light went out."

"Miss Devereux," I murmured, "I have, I hope, an icy tone for persons who have incurred my displeasure, and I employed it then and there with, no doubt, its fullest value."

She and my grandfather were groping in the dark for the lost lantern.

"I Wanted You to Come, Squire Glenarm?"

and I, putting out my hand, touched her unheeded fingers.

"I beg your pardon," she murmured, frostily.

Then I found and grasped the lantern.

"One moment," I said, "and I'll see what's the trouble."

I thought my grandfather took it, but the flame of my watch showed her fingers clasp the wire frame. The cloak slipped away, showing her arm's soft curve, the blue and white of her bodice, the purple blur of violets; and for a second I saw her face, with a smile quivering about her lips.

My grandfather was leading the ground impatiently with his stick, urging us to leave the lantern and go on.

"Let it alone," he said, "I'll go down through the chapel; there's a lantern in there somewhere."

"I'm awfully sorry," she said, "but I recently lost my best lantern!"

"To be sure she had! I was angry that she should so bravely recall the night I found her looking for Pickering's notes in the passage at the door of Newbloom!"

I was striving to touch the wax taper to the wick, with imminent danger to my bare fingers.

"They don't really light well when the oil's out," she observed, with an exasperating air of wisdom.

I took it from her hand and shook it close to my ear.

"Yes; of course, it's empty," I muttered disdainfully, and threw it from me.

"Oh, Mr. Glenarm!" she cried, turning away toward my grandfather.

I heard his stick bending the rough path several yards away. He was hastening toward Glenarm House.

"I think Mr. Glenarm has gone home."

"Oh, that is too bad!" she exclaimed.

"Thank you! He's probably at the chapel by this time. If you will permit me—"

"Not at all!"

A man in the sextles should not tax his arteries too severely. I was quite sure that my grandfather ran up the chapel steps. I could hear his stick beating hurriedly on the stones.

"If you wish to go farther," I began.

I was indignant at my grandfather's conduct. He had deliberately run up the chapel steps with a young woman whom I had resolved never to see again.

"Thank you, I shall go back now. I was merely walking to the chapel with Mr. Glenarm. It is so dark, I have my back again, so unobscured."

It was just such a polite remark as one might expect in speaking to an old foe at a friendly table.

She listened a moment, then, looking toward St. Anthon's, I followed in certain hesitating footsteps, then I went on my way.

her cloak stole the faint perfume of violets. The sight of her, the sound of her voice, combined to create and to destroy—a mood with every step.

I was seeking some colorless thing to say when she spoke over her shoulder.

"You are very kind, but I can not the least afford, Mr. Glenarm."

"But there is something I wish to say to you, now that we have met. I should like—"

She slackened her step.

"Yes."

"I am going away."

"Yes; of course, you are going away."

Her tone implied that this was something that had been ordained from the beginning of time, and did not matter.

"And I wish to say a word about Mr. Pickering," I added.

She paused and faced me abruptly.

We were at the edge of the wood, and the school lay quite near. She caught the cloak closer about her and gave her head a little toss. I remembered well, as a trick compelled by the vagaries of woman's head-dress.

"I can't talk to you here, Mr. Glenarm. I had no intention of ever seeing you again; but I must say this to you—"

"These notes of Pickering's—I shall ask Mr. Glenarm to give them to you—as a mark of esteem from me."

She stepped backward as though I had struck her.

"You risked much for them—and for him!" I went on.

"Mr. Glenarm, I have no intention of discussing that, or any other matter with you—"

"It is better so—"

"But your accusations, the things you imply, are unjust, infamous—"

The quaver in her voice shook my resolution to deal harshly with her.

"If I had not myself been a witness—"

"Yes, you have the concept of your own wisdom, I dare say."

"But that challenge to follow you, to break my pledge, my running away only to find that Pickering was close at my heels, your visit to the tunnel in search of these notes—don't you know that these things were a blow out?"

You had been the spirit of this woodland to me. Through all these months from the hour I watched you paddle off into the sunset in your canoe, the thought of you made the days brighter—staid and closed me—and awakened ambitions that I had forgotten—abandoned—long ago.

And this hideous struggle here—it seems so idle, so worse than useless now! But I'm glad I followed you. I'm glad neither fortune nor duty kept me back. And now I want you to know that Pickering shall not suffer for anything that has happened. I shall not punish him, for your sake he shall go free."

A sigh so deep that it was like a sob broke from her. She threw forth her hand entreatingly.

"Why don't you go to him with your generosity? You are so ready to believe ill of me! And I shall not defend myself, but I will say these things to you, Mr. Glenarm. I had no idea, no thought of seeing him at the Armstrongs. It was a surprise to me—and to them—when he telegraphed he was coming. And when I went into the tunnel, there under the wall that night, I had a purpose—a purpose!"

"Yes!" She paused and I bent forward, earnestly waiting for her words, knowing that here lay her great fondling.

I was afraid I was afraid that Mr. Glenarm might not come in time that you might be disappointed. I was the light, and I came back with Mr. Pickering because that was the easiest and quickest way and I thought some dreadful thing might happen here to you."

She turned and ran from me with the speed of the wind, the cloak that fluttered darkly about her. At the door, under the light of the lamp, I was close upon her. Her hand was in the vestibule latch.

"But how should I have known?" I cried, "when you had taunted me with my imprisonment at Glenarm, you had dared me to follow you. If you can tell me if there is an answer to that—"

"I shall never tell you anything more!" You were so eager to think ill of me—to accuse me!"

It was because I love you, it was my jealousy of that man, my lifelong enemy, that made me catch at any doubt! You are so beautiful you are so much a part of the peace the charm of all this! I had hoped for spring—for you and the spring together!"

"Oh, please—"

Her hand had shaken the latch to an unopened door. She looked back quickly and I saw her finger at the latch eagerly. The light from the head was all upon us, but I could not go with hope and love struggling, untroubled in the heart. I seized her hand and sought to look into her eyes.

"If you wish to go farther," I began.

"I will not go farther," I said.

"So, I am going away," I said.

"Yes," I said.

"I am going away," I said.

"Yes," I said.

OUR WEST VIRGINIA NEIGHBORS.

The I. O. O. F. Lodge, of Wayne, will have a public installation of officers July 12. A program will be published later.

It is stated that the Columbia Oil & Gas Co. will at once begin the construction of its pipe line to convey natural gas from the West Virginia fields across the Ohio river, through Ohio to Cincinnati. This company's plans have been referred to previously, the reports including that about 250,000 acres of gas lands are controlled in West Virginia and Kentucky, but the latter properties are not to be developed for another year. Mr. A. S. White, president of the company, Cincinnati, is credited with the statement that contracts have been awarded for 20-inch diameter piping and accessories for constructing the pipe line, and that these materials are to be furnished as rapidly as needed. The company has a contract for supplying Cincinnati with gas, about 50,000,000 feet daily to be needed during the first year.

Williamson, W. Va., June 21. Sheriff E. E. Musick, of Mingo county, this evening arrived in the city, having in charge Harrison Hatfield, who is charged with poisoning his wife last Saturday. It is said that on his way home from the Federal Court session at Charleston last week he purchased a vial of strychnine. Neighbors quote him as having said he had warned his wife to leave by 12 o'clock Saturday. At 3 that afternoon she was a corpse. It is said that the strychnine was placed in food which Mrs. Hatfield took at dinner. She gave a cat some portions from her plate and shortly afterward she became ill. The cat went into convulsions and died. Mrs. Hatfield also died in convulsions. Physicians who arrived early to save her gave it as their opinion that she had been poisoned. The stomach of the woman was taken to Cincinnati to have a chemical analysis made. The stomach of the cat also was taken.

A few weeks ago Hatfield lost $2,800 which was forwarded to him by registered letter. On the night the letter reached the horsepen post-office the office burned and it was claimed that the letter containing the money was burned. The postal authorities made an investigation and Postmaster Trent, it is claimed, confessed that he got the money. He is now in jail. Many believe that Hatfield worried over the loss of the money until he became demented. He is about 50 years of age. He is a cousin of "Bad Anse" and the notorious "Cap" Hatfield, of feud fame.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney and Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

FREE TRIP FOR 3 LADIES

To the Great Jamestown Exposition With all Expenses Paid by The News.

The BIG SANDY NEWS will pay the expenses of the three most popular ladies in Lawrence county on a week's trip to the wonderful Jamestown Exposition. The trip will be made in August, 1907, when the Exposition is well under way, when the weather is good, and when summer vacation is at hand. The three ladies will go with the Editor of THE NEWS and his wife as their especial guests, and their every comfort and enjoyment will be carefully looked after. Remember, their every expense will be paid by the NEWS—railroad fare, sleeper and dining car fees, hotel bills, admissions to Exposition and concession shows, street car fares, lunch bills, etc.,—everything from the time they leave Louisa until they return home safe and happy. Everything will be first-class. They will travel in Pullman cars, take their meals in elegant dining cars, and stop at the best hotels. It will be the trip of a lifetime!

Who may go on This Trip.

Every respectable lady in Lawrence county and part of Wayne is eligible to be our guests on this joyous outing. She must be married or single. In order that there may be a fair chance for every part of the territory to be represented we have decided to divide it into districts as follows:

One Lady from District A:

Embracing three Voting Precincts, viz: Upper and Lower Louisa, and the districts of Wayne county, W. Va. in which Fort Gay is located and which are reached by the Fort Gay Rural Free Delivery.

One Lady from District B:

Embracing Voting Precincts, viz: Bear Creek, Falls of Blaine, East Fork, Dry Fork, Cat, Twin Branch, Cherokee.

One Lady from District C:

Embracing Voting Precincts, viz: Upper Blaine, Sweetnam, Georges Creek, Dobblus, Peach Orchard and Rockcastle, Blaine and Little Blaine.

The party elected from each district must live or be employed within its limits. That is the only requirement and that is done for their own protection. Any person anywhere may vote for any candidate in any part of the county. Citizens may solicit votes anywhere. The votes can be mailed, or they may be delivered in person. The Contest Editor of THE NEWS, or may be delivered in person at THE NEWS office. The votes may be deposited his or her own table in districts as follows:

How the Selections Will be Made.

The ladies who will go on THE NEWS free trip are to be chosen by the people. Everybody can vote—old patrons or new ones, rich or poor, young or old. Every dollar paid to THE NEWS on subscription, job printing or new advertising will entitle the payor to cast 100 votes. No payment of less than $1.00 will be entitled to any votes.

As a special recognition of new subscribers and advance subscriptions we make this allowance: Any one who pays IN ADVANCE one year's subscription to THE NEWS favoritism will be shown, no assistance will be given to any candidate. It must be a square deal.

The Contest will Close August 14th, 1907.

NOW, PLEASE KEEP IN MIND:

That every girl or woman of good character in Lawrence county is eligible to be a candidate.

That a vote cast for a lady nominates her as a candidate in her district—nothing else to do.

That she will have to compete only with the candidates in her district, but may get votes anywhere.

That the lady receiving the highest vote in her district will go as the representative of that district.

That every Dollar paid to THE NEWS for subscription, job printing and new advertising obtained through the efforts of the candidates themselves is good for 100 votes.

That it is easy to win if you get busy early in the race and get your friends interested.

That it will be the trip of a lifetime, and you will be the personal guest of the Editor.

The Race is on! Nominate Your Favorite To-Day.

Martin county has celebrated her court house and has a new and comfortable residence about completed. The little town of Fair is improving. A newspaper is to be started here in a short time.

Several counties in Eastern Kentucky will be developed by a new electric line which is proposed to be constructed by the Kentucky Electric and Light Company. The line will run from the Ohio River at Wheeling, West Virginia, and come to the mouth of the Kanawha river at Huntington, West Virginia, and then to the mouth of the Ohio river at Cincinnati, Ohio.

David Peck who had his leg cut while returning from the election at this place Saturday and today at his home at Harwood, Marshall, Ky. who was cut in a horse race on the same day is some better. He is in a dangerous condition.

So widely has the fact been known that the county of Boone, West Virginia, is the only one in the state where the people are not allowed to vote on the day of the election, that the county of Boone, West Virginia, is the only one in the state where the people are not allowed to vote on the day of the election.

If You Are Sick

It is because some of the organs of the body are not doing their work well. There is a lack of that nervous energy that gives them motion. Consequently you are weak, worn-out, nervous, irritable, cannot sleep; have headache, indigestion, etc. because there is not sufficient nerve force to keep the organs active and allow them to perform their natural functions. Dr. Miles' Nervine restores health because it restores this nervous energy.

"I have been sick for a year, and did not know what was the matter with me. I tried many remedies and none of them proved of any value. I heard of Dr. Miles' Nervine. I procured a bottle, and before I had taken half of it I was better. I would have had nervous prostration if I had not got this medicine when I did. I continued to take it until I was entirely well. I have since recommended it to all of my lady friends, and they have all thanked me for doing so, for it benefited them all."

MRS. ROSE OTTO, 129 S. 34 St., Columbus, Ohio.
Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

Time is Money.

Watch it, lest it fly away and is lost. To "Improve each shining hour" you need something to mark the time with.

You lose much valuable time by guessing at it. Buy a good watch or clock at the right price and with a good guarantee behind it, all of which you get at Conley's Store.

Also, go there for anything in JEWELRY AND SILVERWARE. Real China, Cut Glass, Novelty ware, &c.

Conley's Store, Louisa, - - Kentucky.

A New Store.

WE have bought the entire stock of Undertaker Goods from C. M. Crutcher, and are now ready to serve you in the best manner. We shall at all times endeavor to have a complete stock, and we especially solicit the trade of Lawrence and Wayne County people. Trusting to have the pleasure of meeting you in our store, we remain,
